Resurrection Poem © on March 28, 2020 by James P. Schuman

I miss the pageantry

Not the choir marching in or the lilies burst open nor the season's new pastel frocks or the half shouted "He is risen"

That I don't miss: the attempt at artificial exuberance prompted by a liturgical calendar, thrust upon stoic Presbyterians once a year.

No.

I miss the flowers.

The wild daring daffodils

The hyacinths hungry for sunshine

The ones whose names I do not know but whose brave beauty brings me joy.

The high plains slumber in winter's tight grasp; snow fell a day ago. There are no buds on the trees or fresh stems pushing up through the still frozen ground.

Ah, but when they arrive, not according to a date on a page but when it is by their own sweet time, ah the beauty then!

When the grass greens, and wildflowers burst open, when buds on trees turn to leaves, then we will sing Alleluia!

Then we will shout what we know

Resurrection!

The Call to Worship [Responsive]

One: Christ Is Risen!

Many:* Christ Is Risen Indeed!

One: We gather:

Many:* a community of faith in God's subversive world.

One: We gather to celebrate

Many:* that no darkness can extinguish light,

One: to remember

Many: that love will always be more powerful than death,

One: and to trust that

Many: peace will always be stronger than violence.

One: We gather,

Many: People of faith in the light of God's world.

One: As we gather to celebrate the resurrection, let us proclaim the message of Easter:

ALL: Nothing in life or in death can separate us from the Love of God in Christ Jesus the Risen One!

One: Alleluia!!

Many: Alleluia! Amen!

The Resurrection of Jesus – The Gospel of Luke 24:1-12

But on the first day of the week, at early dawn, they came to the tomb, taking the spices that they had prepared. They found the stone rolled away from the tomb, but when they went in, they did not find the body. While they were perplexed about this, suddenly two men in dazzling clothes stood beside them. The women were terrified and bowed their faces to the ground, but the men said to them, "Why do you look for the living among the dead? He is not here, but has risen. Remember how he told you, while he was still in Galilee, that the Son of Man must be handed over to sinners, and be crucified, and on the third day rise again." Then they remembered his words, and returning from the tomb, they told all this to the eleven and to all the rest. Now it was Mary Magdalene, Joanna, Mary the mother of James, and the other women with them who told this to the apostles. But these words seemed to them an idle tale, and they did not believe them. But Peter got up and ran to the tomb; stooping and looking in, he saw the linen cloths by themselves; then he went home, amazed at what had happened.

The Lighting of the Christ Candle

One: As we light the Christ Candle, we too proclaim,

Many: "We have seen the Risen Lord!"

The Peace

One: The Peace of the Risen Christ be with you.

Many: And also with you.

The Resurrection of Jesus – The Gospel of Luke 24:13-35

Now on that same day two of them were going to a village called Emmaus, about seven miles from Jerusalem, and talking with each other about all these things that had happened. While they were talking and discussing, Jesus himself came near and went with them, but their eyes were kept from recognizing him. And he said to them, "What are you discussing with each other while you walk along?" They stood still, looking sad. Then one of them, whose name was Cleopas, answered him, "Are you the only stranger in Jerusalem who does not know the things that have taken place there in these days?" He asked them, "What things?" They replied, "The things about Jesus of Nazareth, who was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people, and how our chief priests and leaders handed him over to be condemned to death and crucified him. But we had hoped that he was the one to redeem Israel. Yes, and besides all this, it is now the third day since these things took place. Moreover, some women of our group astounded us. They were at the tomb early this morning, and when they did not find his body there, they came back and told us that they had indeed seen a vision of angels who said that he was alive. Some of those who were with us went to the tomb and found it just as the women had said; but they did not see him.” Then he said to them, “Oh, how foolish you are, and how slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have declared! Was it not necessary that the Messiah should suffer these things and then enter into his glory?” Then beginning with Moses and all the prophets, he interpreted to them the things about himself in all the scriptures. As they came near the village to which they were going, he walked ahead as if he were going on. But they urged him strongly, saying, “Stay with us, because it is almost evening and the day is now nearly over.” So he went in to stay with them. When he was at the table with them, he took bread, blessed and broke it, and gave it to them. Then their eyes were opened, and they recognized him; and he vanished from their sight. They said to each other, “Were not our hearts burning within us while he was talking to us on the road, while he was opening the scriptures to us?” That same hour they got up and returned to Jerusalem; and they found the eleven and their companions gathered together. They were saying, “The Lord has risen indeed, and he has appeared to Simon!” Then they told what had happened on the road, and how he had been made known to them in the breaking of the bread.

One: For the Word of God in Scripture, For the Word of God among us, For the Word of God within us,

Many: We give thanks to God! Alleluia! Amen!

The Invitation to the Table

One: Gather around this resurrection table where all are welcomed and the good earth is affirmed. From her generosity, we bring these gifts of bread and wine.

Many:* Witnesses to hope, we participate in Christ’s liberation.

The Eucharistic Prayer

One: The peace of the Risen Christ be with you.

Many:* And also with you.

One: Be still and know that I am God.

Many:* We are still in your presence, you are still with us.

One: In Christ you accompany us, embodied among us, sharing our birthing, our living, our dying, sharing our dreams of hope and liberation, offering us new life and the shattering of the tomb.

Many:* In Christ you appear as the host at the ebbing and the flowing of our lives.

One: You beckon us to share your hospitality, your challenge of love.

Many:* In Christ you sit as the guest at the table of the stranger.

One: You bless us with your presence, your awakening of love.

Many:* In Christ you stand among us as host and guest at the heart of this community.

One: You share with us your vulnerability, your unwrapping of love. As hosts with Christ, we bless this bread. As guests with Christ, we pour this wine. As welcomed strangers, united in Christ's life, death, and embodied liberation, we hear the words of promise: This is my body given for you; take and eat to remember me. This cup poured out: this is the new covenant in my blood; take and drink to remember me. In this action of justice-making, we recall broken minds and bodies and blood shed through lust for power and nature's turn of hand.

Many:* Restore and heal all that is wounded. Be present in the stillness of the waiting. Roll back the stone of prejudice and fear. Release the signs of spring. Amen.

The Sharing of Bread and Cup

The Prayer after Communion

The Blessing

One: May the God whose power breaks through the stone, break into your life and free you from all that binds you;

Many:* May the Risen Christ whose love is stronger than death speak our names and bring all people to new life and joy;

One: May the Spirit of the Risen Christ walk the road with you, giving you wisdom to understand and courage to share God's new life for the whole world. Christ is Risen!

Many:* Alleluia! Amen!

Oakland-Cambridge Presbyterian Church is committed to using language in such a way that all members of the community of faith may recognize themselves to be included, addressed, and equally cherished before God. Seeking to bear witness to the whole world, the church struggles to use language which is faithful to the biblical truth and which neither purposefully nor inadvertently excludes people because of gender, color, or other circumstance in life.
